PLEASE NOTE: Your registration entitles you to the two components of the Denominational Celebration: the live broadcast on July 23-25 and the recording of it. The live broadcast is happening in real time; this means attendees will not be able to stop and start the broadcast at their own pace on July 23-25. The event is happening on Eastern Time. Once the broadcast has completed on July 25, been edited, and uploaded then you will have access to the full conference to watch at your own pace and preference. We will get it out as soon as our small but valiant group can manage! So please do not panic if you log in at your own time zone and the conference is already underway from that Eastern Time start - simply join in from where we are and know you will have access to the full conference recording a short time after the conclusion of our gathering.
